

I share the concerns of FAIR that too much consolidation in the media is not good for media accountability or the quality of journalism. I am against the repeal of the rule that prohibits a company from owning both a newspaper and TV station in the same geographic locale.

At the very least, I'd like to hear some logical arguments for why the repeal of the law is in the best interest of the american people.